Hello, my name is Haylee Schiavo. I am currently a student at Arizona State University pursuing two degrees in Family and Human Development as well as Fine art Photography. I plan on becoming a clinical psychologist for children in high conflict homes. I am eager to heal and help children who are unable to speak up for themselves. I also plan on photographing meaningful, real-world stories for prestigious magazines such as Life or National Geographic. I am passionate about my Catholic faith, my family, animals, and horseback riding. These are the things that never fail to inspire me and to bring me endless joy.
